SuperConcepts announces changes to the Leadership Team

SuperConcepts CEO Lara Bourguignon today announced a broader Leadership Team structure designed to best serve clients and business growth.

Finance Manager Mark Bailey will be promoted to Chief Financial Officer following the departure of Adrian Urquhart last month.

People and Culture Executive Manager Sherry Midgley will be promoted to General Manager and now sit on the Leadership Team. Garth Montgomery will also be elevated to the Leadership Team in his capacity as Executive Manager Communications and Content to oversee all matters affecting corporate and public affairs.

Chief Operating Officer James Fitzpatrick has decided to take up an opportunity outside of the SMSF sector after 3 years with SuperConcepts and will be finishing up in mid-June. Replacing the COO role will be two newly created positions.

General Manager of Product, Risk and Strategy is a new role that is currently undergoing a recruitment process.

General Manager of Growth is the final role that is also in the process of recruitment and will be announced shortly.

"These new roles will strengthen our Leadership Team with a view of best serving our clients," said Ms Bourguignon.

"Our existing Leadership Team has a long tenure with deep experience and I'm excited to be adding to it by promoting from within and identifying new roles that will help better serve our clients and business objectives," Ms Bourguignon said.

Ms Bourguignon thanked Mr Fitzpatrick for his contribution.

"SuperConcepts is incredibly grateful for the immense contribution James has made over the past three years.

"James has achieved huge professional goals and we wish him well in his decision to move to the next phase of his career," said Ms Bourguignon.
